BURLEY COUNTIES PLACED IN DISTRICTS

Mr. Burnam's Committee Places
Madison With Four Others
—22 Are Formed

The burley tobacco area of Kentucky, Ohio, and Indiana was divided into twenty-two districts Saturday night by the committee on districting and elections, but the date of the elections was not agreed upon but left to a later meeting of the committee, says the Leader.

Decision in the matter of the districting came after three days of deliberation, in which effort was made to harmonize all differences of opinion as to what was best to be done in the alignment of the counties with each other. The committee's decision was unanimous and came after three days of deliberation.

The committee is composed of T. S. Burnam, of Madison county, chairman; Bush W. Allen, of Mercer; Martin L. Harris, of Indiana; Albert Day, of Mason; Joseph Passonneau, organization manager, of Fayette county.

The counties of Fayette, Bourbon, Shelby, Mason and Scott are made separate districts. Another district is composed of the counties of Ohio in the burley belt, and still another is composed of the Indiana counties. The districts are finally agreed upon and announced Saturday night, are as follows:

The Burley Tobacco Growers' Co-operative Association, which finished its preliminary work last week by the pooling of more than 180,000 pounds of tobacco of the less than 210,000,000 pounds grown in the burley district in 1920, is the largest single co-operative association in the world, with 42,000 members and the probability that it can have between 8,000 and 10,000 more if it decides to permit those who so far have failed to sign up their crops with the association to come into the organization.

The association covers probably wider territory than any other co-operative body. It includes the counties of Anderson, Barren, Bath, Boone, Bourbon, Boyle, Bracken, Bullitt, Carroll, Carter, Casey, Clark, Cumberland, Fayette, Fleming, Franklin, Gallatin, Garrard, Grant, Grayson, Green, Hardin, Hart, Henry, Jefferson, Jessamine, Kenton, Letcher, Lewis, Lincoln, Madison, Marion, Mason, Meade, Mercer, Metcalfe, Montgomery, Nelson, Nicholas, Oldham, Owen, Pendleton, Powell, Robertson, Scott, Shelby, Spencer, Trimble, Washington, and Woodford, in Kentucky; Clark, Dearborn, Franklin, Jefferson, Ohio, and Switzerland, in Indiana; Mason, Cabell, Wayne and Clermont in West Virginia; Brown, Adams, Clermont, Gallia, and perhaps a others in Ohio, and three counties in Tennessee, which raise about eight or ten million pounds. The production of the entire district ranges from 170,000,000 pounds in the poor years to 300,000,000 pounds when there is a full acreage and crop conditions are favorable.

Aaron Sapiro, the California lawyer and co-operative genius, under whose guidance the burley growers have organized, has said that it would be worth twenty and thirty millions of dollars to the tobacco men to form an organization for the orderly mar-

DR. JOHN BURNAM DIES IN CALIFORNIA

Relatives here were grieved to receive news Monday afternoon of the death of Dr. John Miller Burnam. He died at the home of Mr. Allen E. Burnam, at Pomona, California. His funeral will be held there Wednesday, relatives say. Dr. Burnam was widely related in Madison county. He had been in ill health for sometime.

Marketing of their crops. This statement of Sapiro's has been forced out by the fact that tobacco which sold on the Lexington market in January, 1921, for two or three cents a pound has been resold by speculators who bought it at 12 to 18 cents a pound when the manufacturers happened to want that kind of tobacco. It is believed the growers lost twenty million dollars in Kentucky alone last year by their inability to hold their crop off the market, as many of their leaders advised them to do.

Under the new system of marketing the growers will be enabled to hold their crops indefinitely, almost, for with government aid in financing, there is little doubt the organization will be able to make a substantial advance to the grower when he delivers his tobacco. Experts do not believe it will be many months before the manufacturers come with request for prices and the prediction has been made that, after a fair trial of the system, neither tobacco growers nor manufacturers will do business on any other basis.

The new association has considerable work to do before it can actually start in business. It must be incorporated, it must divide its territory into districts, and elect 22 directors, one from each district, and three directors-at-large to be named by the other directors. It must have a manager, a secretary and an office force. It will be strictly a selling and not a holding corporation and those who have observed the workings of other co-operative associations predict success for this newest and largest of them all from the start. It is probable the new association will be ready for business by December 15, a month from the date of its successful signing up of the crop.

"Every committee is busily at work on the city assigned it," said Organization Manager Joseph Passonneau, of the Burley Tobacco Growers' Co-operative Association, Saturday, when asked what were the developments, if any, in the tobacco situation. "We are doing our best to do what is best for all the growers," Mr. Passonneau continued. "The number of persons interested directly, the still larger number interested indirectly and the effect upon the entire business element of the burley district made it imperative that we proceed carefully and cautiously. We are endeavoring to do that and to consider every possible advantage for the new association in what we shall do in the committees."

Warehousemen To Meet
Tobacco warehousemen of the burley district, including representatives from Kentucky, Ohio, West Virginia, Indiana and possibly Tennessee, will be in Lexington Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock to confer with the warehouse committee of the Burley Tobacco Growers' Co-operative Association, which has been instructed by the organization committee of the association to negotiate with the warehousemen for the purchase, lease or renting of their warehouses for the receiving, storing and grading of the tobacco signed by the growers to the association.

GOVERNOR'S RACE MAY COME TO FRONT

When Democrats Gather Next Week—Shackelford One of Eight "Mentioned"

Louisville, Nov. 21—When Judge Charles A. Hardin, as Chairman of the Democratic State Central and Executive Committee, issued his call for a conference of Kentucky Democrats to be conducted in Louisville November 30, he summoned what promises to be one of the most interesting political meetings ever known in Kentucky and one that may be expected to have a far reaching effect upon state matters. That it will influence the tides of legislation at the coming session of the General Assembly of Kentucky is said to be certain.

The meeting will be conducted in the auditorium of a Louisville hotel and will bring together Democrats, men and women, from every part of Kentucky. It will be the most representative Democratic gathering of this size that has been assembled in Kentucky, as it is selected without regard to factions.

The Democratic State Committee, the Senators and Congressmen and all the Democratic members of the next legislature have been invited. All the Democratic editors of Kentucky have been bidden also. In addition to these, 600 Democratic men and women, who are without official position in the party but are recognized as leaders, have been asked to attend. It is believed the attendance will reach 1,000.

Many side lines of interest will add to the piquancy of this Democratic family party and among them will be the kick-off for the gubernatorial race of 1923. All the Democrats who have been groomed for Governor, who have been suspected of cherishing ambitions, or who are considered to be likely starters for the nomination, are expected to attend and it is planned to call on them for speeches. Among those who are placed in the "prospective Governor" class are four members of Congress, Campbell Cantrill, M. Ben W. Barkley, W. J. Fields and David Kinchen. Others are former Attorney General James Gannett, Rhodes Shackelford, Desha Breckinridge and Dr. Alexander.

The conference will not be limited to those to whom formal invitations are issued. Any Democrat who wishes to take part will be welcome.

BANKERS PLAN TO FINANCE BIG POOL

Louisville, Ky., Nov. 21—Heads of all Louisville banks will meet today with the Finance Committee of the Burley Tobacco Growers' Co-operative Marketing Association to arrange tentative plans for the financing of the 1921 crop, to be handled by the association.

While practically all Louisville banks have assured the leaders in the co-operative movement of their willingness to help to the fullest extent of available funds, the conference today will be held at 1 o'clock this afternoon at the Pendergast Club, will be devoted to completion of the plan to put the matter before every banker in the state, in order to determine just what amount of money will be forthcoming when needed by the association and to arrange for further credit from other sources.

Regional divisions of the Kentucky State Bankers' Association and the body as a whole, have made a definite statement of their support of the organization. It is the intention of the leaders in the association to deal with local banks whenever possible, and to go to the larger money markets only when they have been told by Kentucky banks that conditions justify such a move.

Louisville banks, and those in the burley belt are expected to furnish most of the money needed by the association to handle, store and market the 1921 crop, but owing to the fact that the low tobacco market last winter has depleted the funds of many institutions, it is expected that it will be necessary to get money also from other sources.

Red Roberts Tells What Centre Players Pray For

After their brilliant victory over Washington and Lee by 25 to 0 Saturday, the Centre College players remained over in Louisville. Judge Bingham entertained both teams at the Pendergast Club Saturday night and Louisville alumni of Centre had the team to luncheon Sunday afternoon. Former Senator J. C. W. Beckham, Emmett O'Neal, Louis Seelbach, C. Lee Cook and Prof. George Colvin, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, "Bo" McMillan, "Red" Roberts and other members of team, as well as coach "Charley" Moran, and others spoke.

"You fellows have been saying that I have not been acting natural of late," McMillan declared after thanking the alumni members for the reception and words of praise. "But how can I be natural when yesterday's game was the last I shall ever play with Centre? I cannot express to you how much I love you all and Centre College. I would be supremely happy if I could only play with Centre all my life."

Citing the fact that Professor Colvin was the valedictorian of his class at Centre, McMillan said he gladly would give up all the honors that have been accorded him if he knew he would complete his course at the head of his class.

Members of the Centre College team visited Louisville churches and Men's Bible classes Sunday morning. McMillan made a brief talk at the meeting of the Deer Park Baptist church. Roberts spoke before Bible Class No. 23 of the Broadway Methodist church. In touching on the custom of the Centre players to pray before and after games, Roberts said the Colonel's prayer not to win, but for strength, energy and Divine protection from injury.

"We've always prayed that the best team might win," he declared.

NATIONAL FARM BUREAU IN SESSION

Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 21—The American Farm Bureau Federation gained 227,878 members during 1920 and now numbers 967,270. J. W. Coverdale, of Chicago, executive secretary, reported to the federation's third annual convention here today. County farm bureaus included in the organization number 1,465.

The federation plans to bring the farm into the movies more extensively next year. Secretary Coverdale told the convention an effort was being made to eliminate breakage of eggs in transit on railroads, causing an annual loss of $5,000,000; to get faster train service on livestock; and to persuade carriers to increase the supply of refrigerator cars.

"At the present time approximately 16 of the wool producing states are pooling, to a greater or less degree, their 1921 clip of wool," he reported, "and we feel that perhaps more progress has been made in the line of cooperative marketing of wool than in any other agricultural commodity."

The report covered national co-operative marketing movements the federation set under way this year and reviewed in detail its other activities.

Martin Loses His Pony

Councilman-elect Charles Martin is mourning the death of his pet black pony, "Doc." Mr. Martin and his pony were familiar figures before the recent election—in fact, Mr. Martin says that he drove "Doc" to victory and he feels that he has lost one of the members of his family.

BRIAND'S DRAMATIC PLEA FOR FRANCE

And Protection Against Germany
Features Third Session of Arms Conference

Washington, Nov. 21—At the third plenary session of the arms conference here today Premier Briand dramatically outlined the position of France in relation to land armaments. He asserted France wanted real peace with Germany. He declared the imputation of critics that France sought military ascendancy in Europe a cruel reproach, and, reading from Ludendorff's book the statement that the institution of war was the creation of God, he dramatically threw the notes of his address on the table and exclaimed:

"There is Germany that has not changed her mind and for whom last war was not a decision. This Germany has kept the armistice. How can we close our eyes to this?"

He said Germany could mobilize her people tomorrow through her newly organized "police force," consisting of officers of the old army and he estimated that at least 250,000 Germans are daily receiving military instructions, and with all their machinery for mobilization at hand, he estimated Germany could raise an army of 6,000,000 or 7,000,000, and asked what would become of France if the Bolsheviks of Russia joined Germany.

Protesting he never would do anything to draw France into war, Briand added the admonition to remember that if France, through an excess of optimism, should be attacked and perhaps lost, he would be nothing more than an "abominable traitor."

Secretary Hughes previously had announced that the matter of naval disarmament is progressing favorably and that "while important declarations have been made on the Far Eastern questions, there is nothing new to report to the plenary session."

When Briand finished, Arthur James Balfour presented the viewpoint of Great Britain, but did not reply in detail, although he pledged support of Great Britain to France in the "face of just domination."

Baron Kato said Japan wanted only such an army as is "absolutely necessary for purely defensive purposes, necessitated by the Far Eastern question."

The Italian delegate said 200,000 men is Italy's just quota and plans are being made to further reduce the army.

HEARD ABOUT TOWN

Mrs. B. E. Belue received a wire Monday stating that Mr. Belue is critically ill at the home of his brother, Dr. Belue, in Alabama, where he had recently gone for a visit. Friends here hope to hear of an immediate improvement in his condition. Mrs. Belue left at noon for his bedside.

Mr. L. E. Rossell has returned from Paducah, where he has been for the past week attending the division assembly of Southern Association of Bell Telephone employees. Mr. Rossell was chosen as chairman of the adjustment committee, division 6, Louisville.

Mr. Julian Manpin's new home is nearing completion. The home which he vacates on Stagner Lane will be occupied next year by Mr. Crutcher Soper and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph B. Arnold have leased the flat in the Colver building which will be vacated by the removal of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Boggs to Frankfort the first of the year.

A moving picture of the Illinois-Ohio State game may turn the tables. Illinois won 7 to 0 by a touchdown following a forward pass, but the moving picture showed that the ball touched the ground before the Illinois runner caught it and made the touchdown.

Pauper Counties Drew Half Million Excess

(By Associated Press)
Frankfort, Nov. 21—The so-called 39 pauper counties in Kentucky received nearly half million dollars from the state more than the total taxes collected from them during the fiscal year, according to figures compiled in the office of the State Auditor today.

DARK PRICES ARE ABOVE LAST YEAR

(By Associated Press)
Owensboro, Nov. 21—Two million pounds of tobacco from the Green River district were on the floors at the opening of the loose leaf market here today. All seven sales warehouses were crowded to capacity. The first sales of 14,000 pounds brought an average of $15.31 per hundred. The opening average last year was $8 per hundred. The sales today averaged $2 for trash and up to $40 for best leaf.

(By Associated Press)
Owensboro, Ky., Nov. 21—The Owensboro tobacco market, the first to open in the state, was scheduled to begin sales today. Growers throughout the state, not only in the dark, one-sucker and Green river districts, but also in the burley district are watching this market with interest as an indication of what prices manufacturers are willing to pay for the leaf crops of the state this year.

Tobacco buyers were here this morning from all sections of the state and from North Carolina.

Indications that exceptionally good prices may be received for the dark grades of tobacco grown in Western Kentucky is seen by growers in the fact that some buyers have been purchasing tobacco in the barns on farms in the eastern end of Daviess county at $18 for leaf and hogs and $2 for trash. This price is equivalent, it is said, to $20 a hundred for the same grades on the loose leaf floors, and as delivery is to be made at points other than Owensboro, the long haul and consequent expense is saved.

Weather conditions in Western Kentucky has been favorable for stripping of tobacco during the last two weeks and a survey of county indicates that the floors of the seven loose-leaf warehouses here will be well-filled for the opening. All houses opened Friday to receive tobacco.

Farmers and buyers here say that the Green river district has the finest tobacco crop in several years and farmers are predicting a big price at the opening sales. Last year the best grades of Green river tobacco brought from $25 to $75 a hundred pounds, with little demand for trash. The farmers are expecting better prices this year with a better demand for trash.

Approximately 30,000,000 pounds of dark tobacco was raised in the Green river district last year and sold over the Owensboro floors. This year warehouses here are expecting much tobacco from Breckinridge, Muhlenberg, Henderson and Webster counties.

It is estimated that besides the dark types, about 7,000,000 pounds of burley tobacco was raised in this district this year.

Horses and Cows Perish In Incendiary Barn Fire

Louis, Ky., Nov. 21—The incendiary who burned Jim Rice's barn removed his dependence for making a living, his team of horses and his two cows perishing in the flames. Bloodhounds were called, but could not strike a trail.

Newspaper Inaccuracies

The Director of Journalism of New York University, Dr. James M. Lee, in a recent address, answered the criticism of the inaccuracies of newspapers by stating that in the Encyclopedia Britannica, recently he had found 100 errors of fact, and that he grew tired of looking before he was through the edition. The haste with which a newspaper is prepared is the most considerable factor in the mistakes which creep in. And all newspapers make them.

FOUR MORE DAYS LEFT IN BIG OFFER

Daily Register To Print Pictures
of Leading Workers in Big Campaign

There are four more days left in which workers in the Daily Register subscription campaign may get the biggest amount of extra votes, for the $30 period will positively close on November 20th.

Most of the candidates now have friends who are interested in them and are now sending in subscriptions each day. This is what counts at this stage of the game. Three or four friends who will send in subscriptions each day, while the extra vote count three for one, will begin to show in a few days and soon one will be leading this race by a larger vote than has been seen since the start.

Beginning this week the Daily Register will from day to day have photographs of all the leading candidates. Be sure your friend who is in the race has her picture in this campaign, for there is absolutely no excuse in not being in this race and a close competitor to the leader, as we have people each day to come to the Daily Register office and subscribe for the paper, without voting or saying one thing about voting, thus showing conclusively that some one has been a fool on the job. You could easily get your friends about voting for your favorite, as you know for a positive fact that they are going to take the Daily Register, even out if the home is not a supporter.

If you will notice the standing of the candidates you will see that most of them are getting very fast in the last ten days, and a steady gain in what counts in a race of this kind. Some of them are gaining very fast in the last ten days, and a steady gain in what counts in a race of this kind. Some of them are gaining very fast in the last ten days, and a steady gain in what counts in a race of this kind. Some of them are gaining very fast in the last ten days, and a steady gain in what counts in a race of this kind.

BIGAMIST PLEADS HE DID GOD'S WILL

(By Associated Press)
Louisville, Nov. 21—William F. Long, admitted to be the husband of two wives under the same roof near New Albany, Indiana, today indicated his defense on the charge of bigamy would be he had "done God's will." He asserted a "spirit from God speaking through Marjorie" will indicate me when I am brought into court," he is reported as saying. Marjorie is a 19-year-old Louisville girl he married last Wednesday. The latter for whom a warrant on a statutory charge has been issued, cannot be found. Long in extenuation of his bigamous marriage, asserted his first wife, or at least her spirit is dead and therefore he had a right to marry Marjorie. His first wife corroborated it.
